

DRIVER IS HELD IN DEATH OF LAD SUNDAY EVENING

Cumberland County Coroner Holds Inquest Into Death of Richard Bupp Today.

A coroner's jury, summoned by Coroner W. S. Ruch, of Cumberland county, to hold an inquest in the death of Richard Bupp, 6-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Bupp, who was killed by an automobile Sunday evening, returned a verdict that the child "came to his death as the result of being struck by an automobile driven by Clarence Cross in a reckless manner considering the time of day and the amount of traffic passing."

The child was killed Sunday evening about 6:30 o'clock when he stepped from behind a cow he was driving in company with his brother, directly into the path of the machine driven by Cross, colored, of Gettysburg.

Coroner Ruch stated late this afternoon that he intended to turn the results of the investigation over to the district attorney of Cumberland county and that the matter would rest with that official.

A number of witnesses, residing near the home of Bruce Cline, an uncle of the boy, and in front of whose home the accident occurred, testified at the inquest and while a motorist, who was following Cross at the time of the accident, but whose name could not be learned, testified that Cross was not traveling at an excessive rate of speed, other witnesses claimed that he was "making pretty good time."

The lad suffered fractures of the skull, collarbones, both legs and his face and chest were badly crushed. He was the second oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. John Bupp, near Goodyear, Cumberland county, and was a first year student at the Idaville school.

The inquest was held at the Cline home shortly before noon today.

Fifteen witnesses were heard by the jury composed of Henry Shaffer, foreman; Francis Myers, Charles Beam, George Meekley, Ira Davis and Emory Delp.

After the inquest Merle Rummel, Carlisle attorney, who was acting district attorney at the inquest, in company with Cross and John Bupp, the lad's father, came to Gettysburg where Cross will be given an opportunity to post bond for a hearing at Carlisle on the reckless driving charge.

Among the witnesses heard this morning were the lad's father, who was standing nearby when the accident occurred and the boy's brother, Charles, who was helping to drive the cow.

MUSIC TO FEATURE LOCAL INSTITUTE

Prof. Hubbard to Give Violin Recital As Part of Program; Urge Teachers to Enroll.

A feature of the forthcoming sessions of the seventy-third annual Adams county teachers' institute which will be held here November 14 to 18, inclusive, will be the music. Professor George E. Hubbard, director of music in the Bethlehem schools, will be in charge of the music for this year's sessions.

Instead of using song books as at recent sessions of institute, Professor Hubbard will bring with him a series of lantern slides on which the songs to be used will be printed. The words will be thrown upon a screen from which the teachers will sing.

Professor Hubbard is a talented violinist and as a special feature of the Wednesday afternoon events he will give a recital. He will bring his own accompanist here for the week.

W. Raymond Shanks, county superintendent of schools, today issued a plea for teachers to enroll for the institute anytime next week. All teachers must be registered before the first session.

Season tickets for the three evening entertainments are on sale, at reduced prices, at the office of Mr. Shanks.

Colorful Costumes Seen In Mummies' Parade; Spirit Of Revelry Marks Fete

Pirates, Colonial Dames, Happily Wedded Couples, Ghosts, Clowns and What-Have-You Seen In Annual Parade In Observance of Halloween; Bands Give Concerts In Square.

Amid a deafening din of noise-making devices, tempered by tunes of several bands, with shower upon shower of confetti falling upon the hundreds of gayly costumed participants, Gettysburg's largest Halloween parade was staged Monday evening, with children and grownups giving themselves up completely to the spirit of the occasion.

In costumes, ranging from the sublime to the ridiculous, and behind masks which concealed the features, the revelers laid cares and troubles aside and gave themselves over to observance of Halloween. No one cared how they looked, no one cared what they did, everything was in fun and in fun everything was permitted.

Costumes Colorful As the paraders cavorted to the strains of the Boys' and Citizens' bands through the principal streets of town, thousands lined the curbs, apparently relishing the display as much as those who participated. As the Mummies passed between the lines of spectators, handful after handful of confetti showered down upon them until streets and sidewalks alike were literally covered with the colored bits of paper.

Among the costumes of the Mummies were some truly gorgeous, many fancy, others colorful, some shabby and in tatters, a few old, many new. The judges had their hands full in making their selections for as soon as they saw one outfit which they thought was entitled to an award, another came along bidding for the prize.

"Pirates" Steal Glory A group of youthful "pirates" led by Harry Gracey, of Gettysburg seminary, and known as the Pioneer club, attracted considerable attention along the route. Two small children, dressed in colonial costumes, perfect in every detail, even to the powdered wig of the "woman", won applause. A boy in the costume of a Chinese lord was the center of all eyes.

Even the musicians in the two bands were costumed, and as the parade moved forward it had the appearance of a weaving, bobbing line of color.

Bands Give Concerts A number of candidates for county offices this fall capitalized on the parade to further their campaigns for election by having their signs on automobiles and wagons. Several well decorated automobiles brought up the rear of the procession.

After the parade, the two bands gave short concerts in Center Square (Continued on Second Page)

Warn Hunters of Dangers Of Starting Forest Fire

With the hunting season opened, when thousands of hunters will be in the woods, warning is given out by the Pennsylvania Department of Forests and Waters to all who go into the woods to use every precaution in the prevention of forest fires.

The hunting season and the fall forest fire season come together. With the dry leaves and dead grass covering the ground, a carelessly left camp fire, burning tobacco, or a pile of burning leaves may result in a fire of large area, doing great damage. It is to the advantage of all persons in or near wooded areas to use the utmost care with fire.

"The sportsman who protects the forest from fire," said George H. Wirt, chief forest fire warden, in an interview today, "does the greatest thing that can be done for the protection of game. Recent rains and the absence of frosts, have eliminated the danger of serious forest fires so far this fall. But several hot windy days may make conditions right for destructive forest fires to burn. The sportsman cannot afford to take any chance with fire in any way from which a forest fire may arise. He should get the habit of being careful with matches, tobacco, and camp fires now so that when dry days come there will be no damage done to the home and food of the game nor to the game itself. It is usually the untrained gun that kills someone. So it is the careless act with fire that starts the wild fire, that destroys the forests and game."

Recent studies have shown that birds and animals are killed by forest fires because of their homing instinct. They are driven from their haunts by the forest fire and then return before the ashes are cold. Their feet and legs are injured or they may become burned on the body so that they die. A true sportsman will give his quarry at least a reasonable chance to save itself. Letting a forest fire get started or continue to burn is a sure sign of a poor sport.

YOUTH HELD FOR STEALING HENS

Wilbur Leister in Jail; Said to Have Admitted Taking Chickens From Brother-in-Law.

Charged with the theft of a number of chickens from the home of his brother-in-law, Wilbur Leister, 18, of Cumberland township, was arrested Monday afternoon by Constable George Aughinbaugh, and was admitted to the Adams county jail in default of bail.

Leister has confessed, Constable Aughinbaugh said, to the theft of a number of chickens from the home of Harry Bollinger, Cumberland township, where he lived. Bollinger is married to Leister's sister, according to the officer.

Bollinger had 57 Barred Rock chickens stolen from his place, but Leister, while admitting he took some, according to the authorities, denies that he stole that many.

Leister has entered a plea of guilty and waived a preliminary hearing, Constable Aughinbaugh said.

STANDARDIZATION OF APPLE PACKS IS URGED HERE

Speaker Tells Lion Club Members That Need Of County Growers Is Advertising.

Adams county and the area about it, particularly through Maryland and Virginia, is rapidly becoming the greatest apple producing section in the United States. P. R. Taylor, director of the state bureau of markets, said at the weekly luncheon meeting of the Lions' club at the Hotel Gettysburg, Monday evening.

"The great apple areas of the northwest have reached their peak and are on the decline, western New York is just about holding its own, but the territory from Adams county south through Maryland and Virginia is just entering its period of greatest production," he declared.

Urges Advertising

Mr. Taylor pointed out that there is not only keen competition between fruits, but between producing areas as well, citing these facts as reasons why fruit growers should standardize their pack and advertise their product. Grading of fruit and advertising were begun in the west, but the east is rapidly becoming aware of the possibilities of putting up uniformly-sized and colored fruit and telling prospective buyers about it, the speaker continued.

"Competitors of the apple industry are advertising extensively and persistently," Mr. Taylor said, "to tell the consumers about their products. Most of the desserts advertised in leading women's magazines are competitors of the apple."

In a survey conducted among 3,000 New York families, it was found that 57 per cent of the people used apples raw, 15 per cent used them in apple sauce, 13 per cent baked them, 11 per cent used them in pies and 3 per cent used them in salads, Mr. Taylor told the Lions.

Apples Best Shippers

Twenty-five years ago, the apple was the leading fruit of the country, the speaker said, few oranges or grapes were raised and the citrus industry was small. Last year 133,000 carloads of apples were shipped in the United States as compared with 30,000 carloads of cantaloupes, 18,000 carloads of grape fruit, 75,000 carloads of oranges, 13,000 carloads of lemons, 78,000 carloads of grapes, 41,000 carloads of peaches and 18,000 carloads of pears, Mr. Taylor declared.

Monday was the first day of National Apple Week, and Mr. Taylor's remarks were decidedly appropriate. He stressed the importance of National Apple Week, its growth in the last ten years and the plans of those in charge of it to extend its message to a year-round advertising campaign so that the apple "may take its rightful place with other fruits." Mr. Taylor pointed out that a million and a half dollars was spent to advertise just one brand of oranges in the United States last year.

The Lions found an abundance of apples and cider on the tables, and the grill of the Hotel Gettysburg was tastefully decorated in the colors of Halloween, for the luncheon. Candles furnished light for the meeting, and a large jack-o'-lantern was placed at the head of the table in front of President Wallace V. Peters.

The York concern, lowest of four bidders, contracted to do the work for $1724.40. The other bidders were W. H. Drawbaugh, Dover, $2150; H. W. Fohl, Biglerville, $2350, and Melvaine and company, Chambersburg, $2850.

The commissioners today announced that the oil and chipping of two miles on the north end of the Mummasburg road, improved this summer, will be done Wednesday, and that the road will be finished in its entirety within two weeks.

AIR COMPANY TO GET HEARING ON INCORPORATION

Ask Permission To Conduct Gettysburg-Washington Passenger Service.

Approval of regular aerial transportation of passengers and freight between Gettysburg and Washington will be sought of the Pennsylvania public service commission on Thursday by officials of the Gettysburg Flying service, according to Howard C. Mitinger, resident manager of the local airport.

In the petition asking approval of passenger and freight service to Washington the local company will include permission to conduct its sight-seeing service over the battlefield here. Incorporation and the issuance of a certificate of public convenience authorizing it to establish public utility lines are sought by the local concern.

In their petition for incorporation the airport officials set forth that two planes have been purchased, both of the biplane type and capable of carrying two passengers in addition to the pilot. They are equipped with 100-horse power motors and are manufactured by the Alexandria Aircraft company, Denver, Colorado. The company is also negotiating for the purchase of another biplane to transport four passengers and pilot in an enclosed cabin. The plane is equipped with a Wright whirlwind motor of 220 horse-power.

Four Seek Approval

The application of the Gettysburg company will be presented to the commission at a "field day" Thursday when the commission will conduct a joint hearing on applications of all four aerial transportation companies which are seeking state approval of incorporation and operation.

The others are: Reading Airways, which already has three planes, hangars and an airport near Reading, and plans to inaugurate regular service linking Reading with Harrisburg, Philadelphia and New York; the Pennsylvania Aerial Transportation (Continued on Second Page.)

One Hunter is Shot While in Field for Game

300 Fewer Hunting Licenses Issued This Year Than Last; Factories Are Closed.

The first victim of the small hunting season which opened today was Floyd Hoffman, 21, of East Berlin, whose body and legs were peppered with a score or more of shot from a gun in the hands of Melvin Altland, also of East Berlin. He was admitted to the Warner hospital here shortly after noon today.

Hoffman and Altland had been hunting rabbits. A rabbit jumped up and Altland fired, killing the "bunny." A second or two later, a second rabbit was seen and Altland fired a second time as Hoffman was going toward the first rabbit shot. All of the shot entered the front of Hoffman's body and legs.

Hoffman was brought to the local hospital by Dr. T. C. Miller, Abbottstown. Surgeons removed two or three of the shots which were near the surface, but did not probe for others imbedded deeper in the flesh. The man's condition is not regarded as serious by hospital authorities.

Nearly 300 fewer hunting licenses were issued up to the close of business in the office of Harry J. Troxell, Adams county treasurer, Monday evening than had been issued at the close of business on October 31, 1926. As compared with 3591 licenses issued at the close of business a year ago, only 3614 were passed out this year. The bang-bang of shot guns echoed in fields and woods near Gettysburg at daylight this morning as the army of small game hunters began beating the bush for game.

One of the first hunters to bag his daily limit of five rabbits was Loy McClellan, of Golden's station, who started hunting at 7 o'clock, finishing 15 minutes later.

So many employees at the Gettysburg furniture factory and the panel factory had asked to be "off" today, that the management declared a holiday for the two plants. The Reaser furniture factory continued working. A number of other local plants reported working forces crippled by the opening of the hunting season, but all were working.

Shortly after the hunting season opened, a heavy blanket of fog obscured the countryside, and made shooting dangerous, except at close range. The fog was dispelled later in the morning by bright sunshine.

COW IS FOUND IN BEDFORD COUNTY

Man Admits Stealing Animal From Bigham Farm; Held in Jail For Sentence.

From John Polan, a farmer in Bedford county, state and county authorities on Monday recovered the registered Jersey cow which Edward Vincent, alias Edward Sanders, has admitted taking from the Bigham Brothers' farm, Freedom township, on the night of October 13. Bigham Brothers accompanied Sergeant Merrifield and Sheriff John C. Shealer to Polan's farm and recovered their cow.

Polan, who lives in the mountainous district, seven miles west of Water-side on the Everett-Altoona road, told the authorities that Vincent had delivered the cow to him on the morning of October 14.

When the cow was delivered to Polan, the registry tag had been torn from its ear, and the ear was bleeding, the Bedford county farmer told the police. Vincent told Polan that the cow had torn its ear when he was loading her on the truck.

Polan said he didn't know the animal had been stolen, believing Vincent to be a reputable cattle dealer. Another cow, which Vincent had on his truck last Friday when he was arrested, is being held by the police who say they believe they know whose whose property it is.

Vincent was taken before Justice J. U. Appler this morning where he signed a plea of guilty, after which he was remanded to the Adams county jail in default of $3,000 bail for the November term.

$225,000,000 TAX CUT MELLON SAYS

Secretary of Treasury Declares That More Than That Would Work Detriment.

Washington, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Another overhauling of the nation's tax law was begun yesterday, the Coolidge administration leading off with a proposal to pare down the annual tax burden by $225,000,000.

Under the administration plan most of this reduction would be accomplished by lowering the corporation tax one and a half per cent, although the program also includes repeal of the estate or inheritance tax, and revision of some of the brackets of the income surtax. It provides for no changes in the income tax rates of the great bulk of taxpayers.

Fight In Committee Likely

The program was presented by Secretary Mellon at the first session of a ten-day hearing before the ways and means committee, which had been called back to Washington five weeks in advance of the convention of congress so that some sort of bill might be ready for the house itself early in December.

Both in committee and house prolonged discussion is certain, many Democrats and some Republicans disagreeing with the treasury secretary in his proposal to limit the cut to $225,000,000.

Mr. Mellon's request for such a limitation was based on a treasury estimate that the surplus for 1929 would amount to only $274,000,000, far under that which has been available in previous years.

COURT SETTLES MAYOR QUESTION

Negley Is Declared to be Indianapolis Executive, Succeeding Duval.

Indianapolis, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Claude E. Negley reigned as mayor of Indianapolis today. His most active contender for the place—Ira M. Holmes, an attorney—withdraw following an adverse court ruling yesterday on his motion to dissolve an order restraining him from interfering with Negley.

Judge Joseph M. Miller, of the superior court, in his ruling declared Holmes "is not now and never has been entitled to the office of mayor." A short time later Holmes delivered his keys to the mayor's chambers to Negley.

Negley will serve until November 8, when the city council will meet to select a man to serve the incomplete term of John L. Duval. In 1930 the city will begin functioning under the city manager form of government.

Disinclination to jeopardize the city's credit by a long court fight was given by Holmes as a reason for abandoning the battle which began last Thursday after the city council decided Duval had not been mayor since his conviction September 22 of violating the corrupt practice act.

WINDOW DISPLAY ATTRACTS MANY

Forest Scene With Stuffed Animals Is Depicted In Display Room At Garage.

One of the most attractive window displays in Gettysburg recently is that of E. L. Weikert at his garage on York street. A fall scene is depicted, a rail fence, autumn leaves and corn stalks being used freely to furnish the background. In the center of the display an iron kettle hangs over a simulated log fire, and around this are two stuffed ringneck pheasants, a black bear, a white owl, a deer rack and a hornet's nest.

On the ledge inside the window is an eight-year-old live alligator in a small tub, with a 20-year-old stuffed alligator beside it.

The display is particularly effective at night when red and blue lights are used to light it.

and Express company, with headquarters at Forty Fort, near Wilkes-Barre, a company which plans regularly scheduled routes to New York, Philadelphia, Detroit, Chicago, Baltimore, Washington and other points in the south and west; and the Noble Aircraft company, Pottsville, which plans to carry passengers, mail, freight and baggage, instruct pilots, conduct sight-seeing business and engage in aerial advertising.

Whether the railroads will protest the "call and demand" and long-distance passenger service of the airplane transportation seeking incorporation will be revealed at the hearing Thursday.

Railroads May Oppose

The railroads have been vigorously opposing petitions of motor bus companies for freight and passenger transportation rights in territory served by the roads, and it is thought possible, in view of contemplated plans for air auxiliary lines operated by the railroads, the roads may initiate a fight against private air carriers.

Recently W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, intimated the possibility of railroads inaugurating air auxiliary service between the larger cities served by trunk lines. No date for launching this proposed service has been announced and it is not known whether the P. R. R. or any other lines will consider the plans of private concerns seeking charter rights in conflict with their own.

Automatically these applications will come before the Public Service Commission first in order to obtain permission to operate as a common carrier. Then the Aeronautic Commission, which was created by an act of the last Legislature, will pass on the matter of issuing the proper licenses.

AMUSEMENTS

JOHN GILBERT STARS IN "THE SHOW" AT STRAND

When John Gilbert rose to the emotional fervor that made his scene in no-man's land in "The Big Parade" one of the outstanding dramatic achievements of the decade, many probably thought that John Gilbert had done the greatest thing in his career.

Perhaps he thought so himself. But that was before he enacted the gangster who, in the face of death, wanted to pray and could not—in "The Show," now playing at the Strand theatre.

The new Tod Browning masterpiece, now playing at the Strand theatre, shows Gilbert in the strangest, most paradoxical and most powerful role an actor ever was given—and his playing of it adds what may be the supreme triumph of Gilbert to his list of achievements.

"ABIE'S IRISH ROSE" AT MAJESTIC ON MONDAY

It is doubtful if ever the coming of an attraction to the Majestic theatre has created more keen interest than has the forthcoming engagement of Anne Nichols' famous comedy success, "Abie's Irish Rose," of which she is author and producer, and which she will present to local theatregoers at the Majestic theatre, Monday, November 7.

Too much stress cannot be laid on the fact that Miss Nichols is sending to this city the entire cast and production which recently finished an engagement of twenty-nine weeks at the Colonial theatre, Cleveland.

POSED AS HERO, BUT IS ARRESTED

Porter Admits Setting Fire to Hospital at New York After Ruse Fails.

New York, Nov. 1.—(AP)—A porter who at first posed as the hero of a fire that yesterday destroyed one of the buildings of the Methodist Episcopal hospital, endangering the lives of 600 patients, later was identified as a pyromaniac and arrested on a charge of arson.

At the height of the blaze, while a crowd surged outside the police barriers, a daughter was born to Mrs. Mary Conger, a patient in the maternity ward, and a man in the crowd dropped dead from excitement.

Ernest Rhodes, the porter, who was said to have confessed he started the fire, was described by Fire Marshal Brophy as a pyromaniac who had been arrested ten years ago for arson and acquitted. District Attorney Dodd, then a magistrate, recalled having held the man for the grand jury.

The fire was confined to a detached building of the hospital group in which the internes are quartered. When flames and smoke were seen darting from its roof nurses and internes gathered to quiet the fears among patients in other buildings. The fire was under control in less than an hour.

Seventy-eight of the 600 patients were taken from the upper floors to the ground floor, ready for removal. Those able to walk were led from the ward; others more seriously ill were wheeled out on cots.

TY COBB READY TO QUIT BASEBALL

Georgia Peach Ready to Rest After 23 Years in Major League; Had Good Year.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 1.—(US)—Tyrus Raymond Cobb has played his last game in professional baseball, he announced yesterday. He made his statement here as he was passing through from a hunting expedition in Wyoming to his Georgia home.

"I am glad to quite after a good year," said Ty. "I would hate to drag myself out on the field when I was no longer able to do good work and have my friends sympathizing with me. I have put in twenty-three years at the game and haven't a permanent injury to show for it. I am sound physically, but there is no telling what might happen if I tried to drag on."

"It has been a keen disappointment to me that I have never been able to spend a vacation with my family. For twenty-three years I have been busiest when my family could take a vacation. Now I will have a chance to spend some time with my children."

Ty will go to Philadelphia to confer with Connie Mack. He doesn't make the announcement of his retirement official at this time—he wants it to be made officially first from Manager Mack.

Immediately after the parade disbanded, the streets ran riot with revelers and confetti-throwing reached peak proportions.

Police made no arrests, but they studiously tried to break up the practice of a number of youths who used rubber bands to shoot buckshot at the revelers. One of these shot broke the glasses of Miss Virginia Mitchell, Center Square, and came dangerously near hitting her in the eye.

The judges, who awarded the 18 prizes, failed to keep a list of the winners. The judges were C. W. Gardner, E. H. Markley, John Storm, E. C. Ott, C. C. Bream and C. K. Hartzell.

The Fraternal Order of Eagles furnished the funds for the two bands in the parade. The Chamber of Commerce had general supervision of the celebration, with a committee, comprising C. W. Cook, Henry Scharf and David Blocher, in charge. A. B. Plank was marshal of the parade.

Prepare To Destroy 10,000 Bbls. Of Beer

Harrisburg, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Preparations for the dumping of between 5,000 and 10,000 barrels of beer at Foch cereal company plant in Philadelphia were made by the alcohol permit board today. The beer was seized when the plant was padlocked by order of Judge Harry McDevitt, of the Philadelphia courts, following a raid by federal officers and the obtaining of beer which resulted in the revocation of the company's state permit.

Old San Francisco

SYNOPSIS

Enrico de Solano y Vasquez, proud and romantic Spaniard, claims in 1776 for King Phillip of Spain the land surrounding San Francisco Bay. The Vasquez hacienda is erected on the broad acres of the hills overlooking the bay, and life moves along in the indolent and carefree manner of Old Spain. In 1848 two grandsons and their mother are the last of the proud line. The discovery of gold disturbs their peaceful existence. The eldest grandson is cruelly slain. His younger brother, Don Hernandez, now the sole male survivor of the Vasquez line, avenges his brother's death.

The game was held up to return the salute, and while an especially smitten male lingered longer than necessary over the salutation his opponent stealthily reached across, grabbed a couple of gold francs from the pot and drained the joint bottle of whiskey. The amorous one turned back to the game just in time to realize that he had been cheated. Out came his knife in an instant and he leaped up with a volley of curses. They clinched and staggered about the moving wagon until it hit a rut and threw them sprawling into the roadside. Still clinched they rolled around until contact with a deep mud puddle brought them to their senses. Yelling at the driver, they ran after the departing wagon amid the boisterous laughter and jeers of the painted girls.

All life was not like that during the Gold Rush, but unfortunately the Vasquezes' secluded existence prevented their knowing about the big and generous things that occurred. The romance of the California Gold Diggers was just as great in its way as the romance of Spain's own early explorations and settlement.

Fifty-eight years had passed since that memorable day of '48, which was the real beginning of San Francisco's prosperity. The city grew until it became the commercial capital of the west coast. The lawless days of the gold rush had become only slightly more circumspect, and at the beginning of the twentieth century it was a joyous pleasure loving city—the "Bohemia" of America. The Paris of the Pacific.

Gambling was rife and glittering dance halls flourished. The "Barbary Coast" and the famous "Cocktail Route" were the rendezvous of notables and the haunt of convivial characters. Blazing electric signs threw out their glow of welcome to all—rich and poor alike—the sinner and the saint. "Carnegie," "Cesar's," "Neptune," "Midway," "Thalia," "Pup," "Fly Trap," and "The Foodle Dog," all paid their tribute in gold to a city government that was honeycombed with graft.

And just a few blocks away, yet separated by centuries of creed and custom, was Chinatown—the capital of California's fifty thousand Chinese population. All the lure of the East was there, with little that was good and much that was evil. Gambling rooms, opium dens, stores that were legitimately business, and houses whose business was illegitimate—all were centered in this section that outwardly was under civil jurisdiction but actually not at all governed by its laws and ordinances.

But even as San Francisco ever prospered and was well on the way to fulfill the brilliant destiny that was before her, the glory of the ancient Spanish founders grew dim. There indolent lives, the traditional love of comfort that had been handed down from one generation to another could not or would not compete with the active, growing civilization that was creeping upon them from the city below.

At the old Vasquez ranch high in the hills overlooking not only the encroaching city but the bay beyond and even the Farallon Islands.

In the dim distance, the latest male descendant of the illustrious line held desperately to the ancestral acres.

Don Hernandez Vasquez, now in his seventies, had become a white-haired, dignified old aristocrat. He was still eloquent in manner with all the pride of the old Spanish nobility, and to his sorrow had seen the ranches and traditions of his old neighbors go, one by one, into the insatiable man of the city.

As he stood on the hillside, leaning on a gold-topped cane, gazing at the vast acreage that spread before him, he shook his head sadly. The end was inevitable. The rancho was pitiful by comparison to its previous splendor. The land was still there, to be sure. But what land! Overrun with scrubby growth, uncultivated, wild, it lay, a tragic and silent monument of the past. His wandering glance finally took in the famous old rancho house. That too was but a symbol of the decay that had been going on for more years than he liked to remember. The walls were cracked and half covered with moss. Here and there huge gaps showed in the masonry, and over it all the vines had run riot; around it the shrubbery had grown wild.

He walked slowly toward the house with a shrug of his aristocratic shoulders. What was to be must be. He was living in the present but not of it. As he neared the patio his expression suddenly changed into one of enthusiasm and anticipation. Here at least was something that pleased him mightily.

The clinking of castanets, beautifully timed to the soft thrumming of a guitar, reached his ear. His eyes sparkled brightly and he leaned against the doorway watching the delightful scene that brought back a breath of the picturesque past.

Dolores Vasquez, the granddaughter of the rancho, was dancing. Her long full skirts cleared the flags of the patio and revealed daintily shod feet as she whirled. Her lovely head held proud and high nodded to the music's rhythm. Her beautiful eyes flashed merrily and her lips parted to smile at the faithful old peon who accompanied her on the guitar.

Lounging lazily on a rustic bench, gazing at Dolores through half closed eyes as he puffed carelessly on a cigarette, sat Don Luis, her very ardent admirer. Don Luis Costanso was a twentieth century caballero dressed in the height of fashion, but nevertheless adhering as closely as possible to his ancestral influence. He sported a small, trimly waxed moustache which seemed a fitting climax to his high heeled boots, elaborate silk scarf and broad brimmed hat. Altogether he was exceedingly good to look upon—according to Don Luis.

"Why do you not smile at me, Dolores?" he objected as she continued to fling her entrancing smiles over her shoulder to the old peon who beamed on her with adoration as he strummed a gay Spanish air.

Dolores did not answer at once but continued dancing toward her grandfather, whom she had just noticed in the doorway.

As old Hernandez watched the charming picture his heart swelled with pride. Here was a Vasquez who was the fairest of them all. And as for Don Luis—well, was he not the son of an old friend and a fitting mate for his beloved Dolores? But then she had a way with her and even his experienced eyes could not determine anything but friendship for Don Luis in the actions of his granddaughter; he wanted to see love.

It was not always so. In his younger days the señoritas did not behave so calmly in the presence of a suitor. And once again his thoughts carried him back into the past. Back to the time when the very same patio echoed to the shouts and laughter of a dozen señoritas and as many dashing young Spaniards—some of them dancing as his own Dolores—others on the balcony singing and applauding.

Ah! but it was hard to grow old —in poverty.

As Dolores finished the dance she blew a kiss from her dainty fingertips and made a deep courtesy before him. Then as he continued to smile sadly she laid her hand consoingly on his arm and said, "Don't worry, dear—some day we shall live again in the glory that has gone."

Vasquez shook his head sadly. "No, my dear, the past is gone and the glory and fame of the Vasques have gone with it."

She looked at him pityingly for a moment, then her face brightened with a happy idea. Laughing gaily, she pirouetted before him, saying, "See! I shall always dance and make you think of the great festa you love to speak of—when you first met my grandmother." Wrapping her mantilla about her, she began an old fashioned Spanish dance.

AIR MAIL LOADS HEAVIER IN WAKE OF LINDY'S TOUR

Reports of Postoffice Department Show Tour Increased Number of Letters Carried.

New York.—(AP)—The loads of letters in United States air mail planes have grown steadily heavier as Col. Charles A. Lindbergh toured the nation in his Spirit of St. Louis, famous New York-to-Paris plane, to advance the cause of American aviation.

Coincidental with the conclusion here October 23 of Lindbergh's epochal flight of 22,350 miles in three months across 48 states, Postmaster General Harry S. New revealed the attendant growth of air mail volume, in a letter to the Guggenheim Fund for the Promotion of Aeronautics, by which Lindbergh's tour was sponsored.

In September, wrote New, air mail planes carried 146,088 pounds of letters as compared with 96,925 pounds in April, the month before Lindbergh's flight to Paris. Every intervening month showed a gain.

"Without doubt substantial encouragement has been given to use of the air mail by Colonel Lindbergh's tour," said the postmaster general. "It is quite difficult to determine exactly what portion of this increase is due directly to the tour, but at every office where Lindbergh visited there was a substantial increase, especially for that day. The net result, I am sure, will prove that definite gain was made."

Air mail poundage since April has been about twice as heavy, month for month, as a year ago.

In his national tour Colonel Lindbergh visited every state in the country, flew in approximately 260 hours almost the distance around the world, paraded 1,285 miles, attended 69 dinners, delivered 147 addresses, and was seen, either personally or in his plane, by a throng estimated at between 30,000,000 and 50,000,000 persons.

His trip began July 20, and lasted exactly three months and three days, terminating at New York where it began. Only once in the course of 81 stops was he late—at Portland, Maine, on account of heavy fog.

With the conclusion of the journey Lindbergh is to prepare for the Guggenheim Fund a statement on the status of aeronautics as he observed them throughout the nation, and this work is expected to occupy his time in the immediate future. He has made no announcement of his further plans.

The air mail figures made public by Postmaster General New were tabulated in pounds for each month since last April:

April	96,925
May	99,107
June	118,746
July	140,065
August	145,023
September	146,088

Lindbergh is estimated to have addressed, during his tour, some 2,000,000 persons who actually heard him speak, in addition to other multitudes who listened to radio broadcasts of his addresses. He dropped messages to 192 towns and cities in addition to the 82 at which he stopped, and he was greeted by governors in 23 state capitals.

SUBDUED CLOTHES BEST FOR CLERKS

Hartford, Conn.—(AP)—There is a reason why department store clerks dress in inconspicuous colors, explains William Haine, department store executive.

Experience has tended to show that bright colored clothing worn by clerks has a psychological effect in diverting a customer's attention from merchandise.

Women clerks are urged to wear navy blue or black, but young clerks are reluctant to wear such dark colors, Haine finds.

RHEUMATISM

May be relieved by rational treatment—it can not be rubbed away.

Are you one of those unfortunates who suffer with pains in your muscles and joints, commonly called rheumatism, making you miserable, less efficient, interfering with your working hours, ruining your sleep? You may have tried many things without relief. Why not try S.S.S. For more than 100 years it has been giving relief in thousands of cases, as testified to in unsolicited letters of gratitude.

"I suffered from rheumatism for a good many years. At times my joints would swell so, I couldn't walk. I tried almost everything. Went to Hot Springs . . . then finally decided to try S.S.S. I took a course. In a short time the rheumatic pains entirely left me. I am now in perfect health, and want to add that I have tried all kinds of medicines but I think S.S.S. is the best." Earl C. Campbell, 416 West Main Street, Johnson City, Tenn.

S.S.S. is purely vegetable. It is extracted from the roots of medicinal plants and herbs and mixed to Nature what she needs in building you up so that your system throws off the cause.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

John Culp (of M.) has sold his brick house and lot of ground on York street to Mrs. Anna Maria Harner for $1950 cash.

The president has issued his proclamation for a day of Thanksgiving and Prayer on Thursday, the 29th of November.

Diphtheria in a malignant form is said to be prevailing in Mount Pleasant township. The school at Bonneauville was suspended last week in consequence of the disease.

Levi Weaver sends us a large ear of corn which was husked on Emmanuel Plank's farm, in Highland township, and measures 13 inches in length and 7 1/2 inches in circumference.

Hon. Edward McPherson is in town and will remain until after the election. Having got his bureau in thorough working order, he is taking a brief vacation, to visit his family.

The Sunday School of Christ (Lutheran) church of this place has special exercises on Sunday afternoon, commemorative of the Reformation. Addresses were made by Prof. E. Breidenbaugh and Rev. Drs. Wolf and Hay.

General Longstreet has prepared a statement of the battle of Gettysburg to appear shortly. As he was Lee's ablest lieutenant, his views will command attention. He will doubtless pay his respects to the critics, who in their anxiety to laud Lee, have charged on Longstreet the miscarriage of Lee's plans.

Grand Army Concert.—The concert given last Friday evening for the benefit of Post No. 9 G. A. R. was one of the most enjoyable entertainments ever given in Gettysburg. Notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather, the hall was very well filled and everyone present seemed to enjoy the entertainment. The stage was beautifully decorated with the "Star Spangled Banner." In a centre a handsome picture of the gallant soldier, Corporal Skelly, was hung festooned in the American flag. The musical entertainment was varied, all the performers rendering their parts most creditably. The parts were all so well done that it is not necessary to mention names, but special praise is due to Mrs. Slayton for the skill with which she performed upon the piano.

G. A. R.—At a meeting of Corporal Skelly Post No. 9, G. A. R., held on Monday evening last, the following action was had: A committee having been appointed to report a resolution expressive of the sense of the post with reference to the entertainment given last Friday evening, reported the following, which was unanimously approved:

Resolved, That Corporal Skelly post return their most cordial thanks and grateful acknowledgments to Mrs. Gen. Slayton, Miss Fannie King, Miss Warren and the pupils from her school, Prof. De Langevin, S. McC. Swope, Esq., the Athenaeum club, the glee club, the Gettysburg Cornet band and the Gettysburg orchestra for the delightful concert, furnished by them, for our benefit, on Friday evening last, in Agricultural hall. The public are indebted to them for a delightful evening's entertainment and the post for the substantial rewards reaped from their gratuitous performances.

Resolved, That the sincere thanks of the post are hereby returned to Constable George W. Myers and Jacob Noel for their services in preserving good order during the entertainment.

Resolved, That we renew our thanks to the public for their liberal patronage, and assure them that the proceeds will be devoted to charitable and patriotic purposes.

Purchased.—We are glad to learn that the Town council have purchased a light portable fire engine, with a quantity of hose. It is both a light suction and forcing engine, which can readily be detached from the carriage and carried into yards, to utilize the water supplies from pump and cisterns, and seems to be just what is wanted in Gettysburg. It was tried on Saturday afternoon and worked satisfactorily. The engine was placed in the northeast corner of the diamond and the suction apparatus dropped into Mr. Boyer's well. About 300 feet of hose were attached to the engine, and the pipe-man took his station on the roof of Judge Will's three story residence on the opposite side of the diamond, from whence the roof of that and adjoining buildings were readily flooded with water.

The entire cost of the engine, hose, etc., was $498. The council will have the old engine repaired and put in working order.

Sales.—Charles H. Ruff has sold his house and lot on South Baltimore street to Mrs. Mary A. Mark for $2,200.

John E. Tawney has sold his farm in Mount Pleasant township, 114 acres and 87 perches, to Isaac Deardorff for $4,000 cash.

Benjamin Shetter has sold his farm in Straban township to Mr. Osborn at $30 per acre.

Hon. James H. Marshal has disposed of the old Knox farm in Hamilton township, to Andrew Cluck at $5,000 cash.

Letter from Utah.—(James Gettys, of Athens, Tennessee, formerly of Gettysburg, has been visiting Salt Lake. In a letter to his niece, residing in Straban township, he gives his opinion of the Mormon capital, a few extracts from which may interest the readers.)

Salt Lake, U. T., September 25, 1877.

LINES FOR A CHURCH CENTENNIAL

A century of service to mankind!
And still the steeple stands beneath the sky.
Thrones rise and fall and fashions drop behind,
The church is all we have that doesn't die.

One hundred years and still the church is young,
Still men keep faith and seek the finer things.
Still hymns of faith and praise to God are sung
While time rusts fame, ends power and humbles kings.

Men come and go upon the stream of change,
Through new and old God keeps His place on earth,
Abiding faith! Oh, is that phrase so strange
Since centuries add lustre to its worth?

Slim Pickens says he has heard a heap about pickpockets following a show, but he has been to several, and he has never even had one to show any curiosity about what he had in his pockets.

Old Brigham Young died a few days after we arrived. We went on Sunday to the great tabernacle. He was laid in "State." I saw him in his coffin. Dear me, it was a cold day. But Downy Woodpecker didn't seem to mind the chilly air. No, indeed. His feather coat was warm and comfortable. He never flew to the Sunny South as did many of the birds at the approach of cold weather. He stayed right through the winter, like Charlie Chickadee and Jerry Junco. His dining room was the Old Orchard, and every day he busily searched each nook and cranny for worm or seed that might be hidden from sight.

As he hunted up and down and around the limbs of the old apple tree this particular morning who should come trotting along but Sic'em, the Farmer's Dog.

"Hello!" cried the little woodpecker. "Well, I declare, there you are!" laughed the good old dog, with a wag of his tail. "Nice crisp morning, eh?"

"Air full of pep," answered Downy Woodpecker.

"Well, I'll say so," marked Old Sic'em. "This kind of weather suits me. Chilly, damp weather gives me rheumatism. But this cold dry air makes me feel like a pup."

"Have you been hunting with your master this fall?" asked Downy Woodpecker.

"Just a few times," answered the old dog. "I'm getting a bit too old for that kind of sport. But I can remember days gone by when the smell of a partridge set me wild with joy."

"But you don't kill them, do you?" asked Downy Woodpecker.

"No, I just smell them out," answered the old dog.

"What for?" asked the little woodpecker.

"So that my master can shoot them," replied Old Sic'em.

"You cruel old bow wow," snapped Downy Woodpecker.

"I wouldn't say that," meekly answered Old Sic'em. "You see, I only smell out the game birds for my master—grouse, quail and wild duck. I've been taught to find them by their smell."

"How do you do that?" asked Downy Woodpecker, growing more curious and seeing that the old dog was in a talkative humor.

"Well, I'll tell you," answered the obliging old bow wow. "Suppose my master wishes to hunt quail. We start out about half past seven on a bright, crisp morning. I trot along at his heels till we come to the wheatfield. Then I trot all around the edge of it, with my nose close to the ground."

"Why with your nose close to the ground?" asked Downy Woodpecker.

"To get the smell of the quail's footsteps," replied Old Sic'em. "You see, early in the morning the quails walk out from cover to get their breakfast, and when I once get the scent of their tracks on the ground, I know, and so does my master as he watches me, that they are somewhere in the field."

"How do you act to show your master you have found the scent?" asked the inquisitive little woodpecker.

"Why, I stop short and stiffen out like a marble statue."

"What does your master do?"

"He comes up along, and pretty soon up fly the quail and my master fires off the gun, and then I pick up the birds that fall to the ground." And in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

ADJUSTMENT

ONCE knew a man who had gone through a most unusual life of pain, sorrow and disappointment. To me he was one of the most inspiring figures I had ever met.

I never knew this man to cast from him aught but a happy spell. He was vital. You felt like throwing your head back and taking a deep breath every time you talked with him. He made you feel that there was something very big in life.

Yet he used to confide in me some of the deeper experiences of his life which had so furrowed his soul.

I marvelled at his composure, his courage, his doings which carried with them such dominance. Yet he was the gentlest of men and his sympathy knew no bounds. He died many years ago at a very advanced age, but there has remained to me such a realism of fineness and power—which he so much embodied—that I cannot forget him.

Naturally I was interested in how he had acquired such a vibrant nature. One day he told me it was because he had early decided that life was first of all a matter of personal adjustment.

He had learned to take the caresses of the world with a smile—quite secretly—and its kicks and knocks with a grim determination. People wondered at his beautiful nature, for many knew of his background of loneliness and sorrow.

Adjustment! What a word worked out as the keynote philosophy of this busy and varied life.

There are those who seem unable to adjust themselves to any change of fate or fortune. But they are not the leaders—not the compelling conquerors.

Two boys wrestled for the "championship" of their family. One boy was much stronger and therefore always threw his brother. But one day the lighter one, through the use of his head and wits, conquered his brother. He became "champion!"

Their father congratulated this new star in his athletic world. The larger boy was quite chagrined. "All right," said the new winner, "I'll give you a chance right now to win back the championship." They wrestled again. The stronger boy won.

"Oh, well, I was champion for a minute anyway!" was the only remark of the lighter boy as he picked himself up. That boy will adjust himself to every circumstance of this life, in my judgment.

The next time you find yourself in a tight place, just adjust yourself, that's all. And pass on.

SAVINGS KINDLE FIRE

Kittanning, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Five thousand dollars in bills were used to kindle a fire in the home of Peter Zalenzy here Sunday. Zalenzy drew the money, his life savings, from the bank Saturday and neglected to tell his wife that he left it wrapped in a newspaper in the kitchen. That was the newspaper she used to start the fire.

Henry Thomas, of Chicago, less than two years old, fell from a third story window onto a pile of loose dirt without being injured.

FARMER WOMAN IN OKLAHOMA

Praises Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Because It Gave Her Health and Strength

In a sunny pasture in Oklahoma, a herd of sleek cows was grazing. They made a pretty picture. But the thin woman in the blue checked apron sighed as she looked at them. She was tired of cows, tired of her tedious work in the dairy. She was tired of cooking for a household of boarders, besides caring for her own family. The burdens of life seemed too heavy for her failing health. She had lost confidence in herself.

One day she began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and her general health began to improve. She took it faithfully. Now she can do her work without any trouble, sleeps well and is no longer blue and timid.

This woman, Mrs. Cora Short, R. R. 9, Box 387, Oklahoma City, Okla., writes: "Everybody now says: 'Mrs. Short, what are you doing to yourself?' I weigh 135 and my weight before I took it was 115. I have taken seven bottles of the Vegetable Compound."

Other women who have to work hard and keep things going may find the road to better health as Mrs. Short did, through the faithful use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Supper Served At 5 O'clock

Why are there so many charming women today?

NEVER before have there been so many charming women.

Wherever you go, you find them. Vivacious, happy, beautiful, delightfully dressed in the most exquisite taste.

Clear, pink-and-white complexion, luxurious, well-kept hair, gleaming teeth, trim athletic carriage—these are almost universal characteristics of American women of today.

Why?

At first thought it may sound absurd, but one of the most powerful teachers has been advertising.

Advertising has helped to teach us all that the real basis of beauty is health and cleanliness. We are the greatest users of soap and water in the world.

Advertising has taught us how to care for our teeth, our hair, our feet, our hands and our complexions.

Advertising has taught us how to dress—how to choose colors and fabrics and becoming styles.

Advertising has taught us how to talk, how to entertain.

One reason why so many women are charming is because so many women are reading advertising. From advertising they are learning the secrets of great beauty specialists. They are getting health information of inestimable value. They are learning the secrets of becoming dress from the famous designers of Paris and New York.

Advertising is one of the biggest reasons why so many women are so charming

SPORTS REPLACE OLD DUMBBELLS IN COLLEGE NOW

Choice Includes Fencing, Riding, Basketball, Tennis and Track.

Denver.—(AP)—“The old order changeth” and dumbbells no longer have a place in the modern college gymnasium.

They have passed out of the picture along with Indian clubs and the old count of “All together! One, two, three, four.”

At the University of Denver, at least, this new conception of athletic activities for girls was put into actual practice when the fall term opened this year under the direction of Mabel S. Rilling, director of the department of physical education.

Branding formal exercise, including the swinging of dumbbells, as “old fashioned and impractical” Miss Rilling is aiding the co-eds in choosing the type of sport in which they are most interested. The selection is now much the same as the judgment exercised in the selection of a sorority or the choosing of a husband.

Co-eds Choose Sport

According to this new program, a co-ed may choose the sport or game which will give her most enjoyment. The range of choice includes fencing, riding, swimming, archery, hockey, tennis, basketball, track, volleyball, baseball and hiking.

“The girls are allowed to follow their natural inclination and instinct as nearly as possible,” Miss Rilling says. “We are concentrating on this program in order to give them something which can be carried into real life. We have found that few students will follow up a program of formal exercise after leaving school.”

“On the other hand, if the girls follow a sport in which they are directly interested and in which they can become efficient, they will continue to make use of that knowledge after leaving college. I have reached the conclusion after 18 years of physical education instruction, that it is much better for the student to act on individual instinct in athletic work than to exercise only in unison.”

As a result of this innovation in the college athletic system, each sport with sufficient followers to make a showing has been organized with a manager for each department.

The program for girls has received hearty co-operation from the Women's Athletic association of the school, which is in direct charge of this phase of the co-ed's education.

Miss Rilling received her degree in physical education from the Yale university summer school in 1905.

Kentucky Wants National Forest

Louisville, Ky.—(AP)—Mammoth Cave and a score of lesser known caverns in central Kentucky will be included in the Mammoth Cave national park which is to be presented to the government.

Congress already has approved acceptance of the park, which will be improved and maintained by the government. Its opening will mark the establishment of the fourth large national park east of the Mississippi river. There already is a national park in Maine, and recently the government accepted the Shenandoah national park in Virginia and the Great Smoky Mountain national park in Tennessee and North Carolina.

Kentucky now is engaged in a campaign to raise $2,000,000 to purchase the land for the park. The section around Mammoth Cave abounds in beautiful scenery and lies within easy reach of residents of the central eastern part of the country.

Old Spanish City to Electrify Roman Tunnels, Exposing Relics

Toledo, Spain.—(AP)—Poisonous snakes and insects are to be chased out of the underground passages beneath the city and their wealth of Roman, Moorish, Jewish and Christian art objects disclosed to the public by modern electric lights.

The entrance to the tunnels, which date back to Roman times, was found beneath the home of El Greco, the famous seventeenth century painter. The passages are tunnelled five stories underground, and secret corridors go off for miles in several directions, some even coming out into the river below the city.

Built by the various holders of the ancient city, they contain valuable relics of the Romans, the Moors, the Jews and the Christians. The home of the painter was once owned by a rich Jew, to whom certain of the tunnels are attributed, and deposits of gold have been discovered in them. There also are splendid Roman vases, Moorish doorways and murals. By next year the city of Toledo will have many of the valuable relics restored and many of the rooms lighted so that they may be easily accessible to tourists.

Many difficulties are being met in connection with the work. The underground rooms and corridors are so infested with scorpions, snakes, and others poisonous that few workmen were willing to enter them. There were “bottomless” pits to be bridged, and just as the work seemed simplified, new passages were suddenly discovered and they too were to be cleared out.

Some of the tunnels have never been explored and the city has offered every inducement to workers who have constantly refused. It is estimated that some of the tunnels could not be gone through in ten days.

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

If Mixed with Sulphur It Darkens So Naturally Nobody Can Tell.

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the musky mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product, for only 75 cents, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called “Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound.” It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive.—adv.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the musky mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product, for only 75 cents, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called “Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound.” It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive.—adv.

PARIS POOR LOSE LEFTOVER MARKET

Paris.—(AP)—“The poor man's banquet,” the market where he bought left-overs from the finest restaurants, is being swept away.

A new building is to go up on the dark spot back of the Madeleine church where every morning the poor went to buy cooked food.

Sometimes there were elaborate displays left from some great dinner. More often the bulk of the offerings were bits of cold meat rescued from the dishes of those who never heard of Hoover's “gospel of the clean plate.” Generally there was a wide choice of stews, salads, hors d'oeuvres and occasionally some dessert. Restaurants and hotels regularly sold or gave the left-over morsels to those who set up shop in the Madeleine market. Pieces of meat, bread and fish were trimmed evenly and put on wooden or paper plates. Many poor people ate their meals in the small courtyard where the food was displayed.

Only Automatic
Motor Protection

Can effectively Combat COLD

Destroyer of Motor Life
and Efficiency

THERE is only one way to be sure your motor is safely protected against the ruinous effects of cold. Only one device on the market today that brings you absolute certainty of protection. That device is Pines Automatic Winterfront.

There is no substitute for it—nothing else for sale anywhere that gives you positive assurance against the ravages of cold.

A danger—too great
to "guess" about

Your motor was not built by guess-work. It cannot be operated by guess-work. Its temperature especially must be regulated by accurate scientific means. For the very life of your motor depends first on heat.

Cold is known to automotive engineers as the greatest destroyer of motor life and efficiency. This destroyer takes a great annual toll of millions for damage that can be avoided. It is responsible, authorities agree, for 50% to 75% of all premature motor wear. Far too serious a danger to trust your memory for its correction. And at 60° Fahrenheit cold strikes its first blow at your motor.

"Over-choking" warns you!

Coughing, spitting noises and delayed starting are the danger signals. Out comes your Pines Automatic Winterfront is the only Automatic Radiator Shutter on the Market.

It is automatic
because—

There is no other way to assure you of timely, constant protection against the destroying force of cold. When cold strikes, Winterfront is always ready. You can't forget to operate it. There's nothing to remember. Its results are possible only because it is automatic.

"choke"—flooding cold cylinders and cylinder walls with raw gasoline. Glass-like metal surfaces are washed clean of the vital oil film of protection. Vital motor parts are exposed to grinding friction. Excessive dilution follows, fouled spark plugs, high gas consumption, extreme carbonization, corrosion and rapid cylinder wear. These are the troubles that bring big repair bills—troubles for which cold alone is responsible.

Winterfront ends these dangers
automatically

The radiator on your car was put there to waste heat—thus to prevent overheating in hot weather. An efficient radiator throws away 35% to 40% of the heat of the fuel. At 60° Fahrenheit there is no heat to spare—yet heat-waste continues through the radiator. Obviously, therefore, the only place to efficiently control motor temperature is at the radiator, where heat-waste occurs.

Pines Automatic Winterfront completely covers the radiator and remains closed until the motor is warm enough to operate without damage to vital parts. The shutters then begin to open, automatically, allowing the entrance of exactly enough cool air to maintain a scientifically correct temperature.

Destroyer of Motor Life
and Efficiency

THERE is only one way to be sure your motor is safely protected against the ruinous effects of cold. Only one device on the market today that brings you absolute certainty of protection. That device is Pines Automatic Winterfront.

There is no substitute for it—nothing else for sale anywhere that gives you positive assurance against the ravages of cold.

A danger—too great
to "guess" about

Your motor was not built by guess-work. It cannot be operated by guess-work. Its temperature especially must be regulated by accurate scientific means. For the very life of your motor depends first on heat.

Cold is known to automotive engineers as the greatest destroyer of motor life and efficiency. This destroyer takes a great annual toll of millions for damage that can be avoided. It is responsible, authorities agree, for 50% to 75% of all premature motor wear. Far too serious a danger to trust your memory for its correction. And at 60° Fahrenheit cold strikes its first blow at your motor.

"Over-choking" warns you!

Coughing, spitting noises and delayed starting are the danger signals. Out comes your Pines Automatic Winterfront is the only Automatic Radiator Shutter on the Market.

It is automatic
because—

There is no other way to assure you of timely, constant protection against the destroying force of cold. When cold strikes, Winterfront is always ready. You can't forget to operate it. There's nothing to remember. Its results are possible only because it is automatic.

"choke"—flooding cold cylinders and cylinder walls with raw gasoline. Glass-like metal surfaces are washed clean of the vital oil film of protection. Vital motor parts are exposed to grinding friction. Excessive dilution follows, fouled spark plugs, high gas consumption, extreme carbonization, corrosion and rapid cylinder wear. These are the troubles that bring big repair bills—troubles for which cold alone is responsible.

The radiator on your car was put there to waste heat—thus to prevent overheating in hot weather. An efficient radiator throws away 35% to 40% of the heat of the fuel. At 60° Fahrenheit there is no heat to spare—yet heat-waste continues through the radiator. Obviously, therefore, the only place to efficiently control motor temperature is at the radiator, where heat-waste occurs.

Pines Automatic Winterfront completely covers the radiator and remains closed until the motor is warm enough to operate without damage to vital parts. The shutters then begin to open, automatically, allowing the entrance of exactly enough cool air to maintain a scientifically correct temperature.

THE NEW ERA IN TELEPHONE COMMUNICATION

Today, you can talk across the Atlantic Ocean from your Bell Telephone in your home or office.

Your voice travels over wires to the coast, and then leaps out over the sea.

The voice from Europe jumps back over the Atlantic and comes to your telephone.

This development is indicative of the tremendous things which have been happening to your telephone service in recent years.

Other things, while not so spectacular, are of perhaps greater benefit to you in your every-day use of the telephone.

You are connected to nearby cities today while you wait on the line—just as on local calls.

Your calls to more distant points are handled with a speed which a few years ago would have been considered visionary.

We're living in a new era in telephone communication.

GALLOWAYS AND YAK CROSSBRED GIVE BEEF COW

Scotch and Tibetan Animals Give Alaska Good Brand of Beef, Experiments Show.

Washington. — (AP) — Scotland's cool altitudes and the vast mountain ranges of Tibet have pooled their staunchest elements of bovine hardihood to provide a beef enterprise for Alaska.

The key to the novel project is the "cattleyak," a hybrid animal in whose veins flows vigorous blood of the Asiatic polled yak and the Galloway cattle of Europe. It is a cross-breed, that defines all the rigors of Alaskan temperatures and at the same time gives promise of excellent meat qualities.

Bred to the Himalayas, the yak is rugged and self-reliant. In a state of elemental domesticity he is used as a work animal by the farmers of western China. Of the same genesis as cattle, the yak is the basis of Tibetan meat, milk and packing industries. The Galloways, native to the hilltops of heather and blue bells, resembles the yak in hardiness, but is a decidedly better beef animal.

Increasing demand for market supplies has created a remarkable opportunity for Alaskan beef breeders. Almost every ship from Seattle and the Pacific ports carry frozen meats from the United States to Cordova, Seward, Anchorage and around the ragged northwest coast to Nome and St. Michael, for distribution to both seaboard and interior settlements.

Realizing that a local beef industry was contingent upon development of cattle harder than any then known, the federal experiment station at Fairbanks evolved the cattleyak theory and made the first cross four years ago, using one bull yak and two cows obtained from Canadian government herds at Wainwright. The result was a calf with the guttural grunt of the yak instead of the prolonged bawl common to cattle. Hair on the lower body was shaggy and the tail short and bushy, all yak characteristics. Otherwise the Galloway resemblance was preponderant.

Successive cross-breeding has produced a total of six hybrids, one of them a bull calf, which is zealously guarded by the prospective sire of a true cattleyak type. He will be mated with the cattleyak heifers, whose reproduction ability was proven by breeding the oldest hybrid heifer to a yak bull for an offspring that, three-fourths yak, bore greater resemblance to the maternal Galloway strain.

Dr. W. H. Evans, chief of the division of insular experiment stations, declares the hybrid to be absolutely hardy and capable of self-maintenance in a temperature 60 degrees below zero. It is significant, he says, that the little herd went through the entire winter in 1926-27, browsing solely on willows, birch and stacks of wheat straw. Their only commercial feed was a cake of linseed meal once a week. Unlike the cattle, they ignored wind and snow, seeking the crude shelter of an open, straw-covered shed only in event of a sleet storm of unusual proportions.

THE WORTH OF PROTECTION

For Your Important Papers and Valuables

Priceless possessions—heirlooms, contracts, deeds—these are the things you certainly want to keep safe from prying hands, the accident of loss, the havoc of fire. For their safety, you should put them in a private safety deposit box in a steel compartment all your own, which only your key will open, in the steel armored re-inforced concrete vault of your bank especially protected by elaborate burglar alarms and fully covered by heavy insurance.

It is convenient and helpful then to have the use of coupon booths where you may go over the contents of your box in the greatest privacy. These conveniences and protective aids are worth money to you.

The banks of Gettysburg, after long investigation of the practice of banks throughout the country, have come to the conclusion that their Safety Deposit Departments, because of heavy cost of initial installation, and the continuous upward cost of up-keep, depreciation and insurance, are supplying conveniences and protective aids that constitute an important service worthy of compensation. A service for which most communities are well pleased to pay.

For these reasons, the undersigned banks of Gettysburg are inaugurating a small service charge of $2.00 per year for the smaller safety deposit boxes and proportionate rates for larger boxes. This will be in effect beginning January 1st, 1928.

WE INVITE EARLY RESERVATIONS AND RENEWALS OF SAFETY DEPOSIT BOXES FOR THE COMING YEAR.
